Party Guidance Speech Hard on Stalin Britain Would Let Colonies Sell to Reds

China Can Get Supply Of Rubber Product Earns Biggest Dollar

London, June 4 (AP)—Britain has authorized her colonies to consider applications for the sale of some strategic goods, including rubber, to Communist China, the foreign office disclosed today.

The western nations imposed a ban on the report of what they considered war potential goods, including rubber, to Red China after the Peiping regime was branded an aggressor by the United Nations following her entry into the Korean war in 1951.

A FOREIGN office spokesman told reporters the authorization has been given within the framework of what is said was Britain's "new policy," announced May 14 by the minister of state for foreign affairs, Anthony Nutting.

Nutting told the House of Commons that Britain intends to make wider use of the "exceptions procedure" in the export ban.

This escape clause permits any western ally to send strategic goods to the Mao Tse-Tung regime so long as the exporting nation tells its partners what it is doing.

THE FOREIGN Office spokesman said specifically the governments of Malaya and Singapore now are free to consider applications for the export of rubber to the Chinese Communists in what he called reasonable quantities.

He declined to reply when asked if any maximum has been laid down by the British government. Rubber is one of the Commonwealth's biggest dollar earners.

THE WESTERN nations have also imposed a ban on exports to Russia and the east European Communist bloc. This list is less stringent than the one for Red China. About 400 items are barred to Red China. The control list for the Soviet bloc numbers 264 items.

The British have long argued that the Far East should be revised because the Red Chinese get a lot of western goods by reshipment through the Soviet bloc. The British have been selling about 7,000 tons of rubber to the Soviet Union each year.

BOTH SINGAPORE and Malaya have been pressing Britain to ease the control on rubber sales. Raw rubber prices on world markets had started to fall.

In anticipation of the British action, the downward trend of prices was halted over the week-end.

The announcement of the new British position came some four months after Prime Minister Eden and President Eisenhower sought to settle their differences over future trading policy with

Barratta Takes Stand After Defense Rests

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—The Dutchess County District Attorney testified as a rebuttal witness today after the defense rested in the murder trial of 21-year-old Wells Van Steenberg.

The prosecutor, Raymond Barratta, told of several accounts the youth gave of the death of Mrs. Lloyd Beresford at her Staatsburg home and of the statement he signed.

Under questioning by Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert Winnie, Barratta denied the defendant's contention that he was refused food during police interrogation.

Barratta said that he had personally ordered two sandwiches for the prisoner.

The final defense witness was the defendant's mother, Mrs. Irene Van Steenberg, of Hyde Park, who said that she notified her son on Oct. 30 of Mrs. Beresford's death.

The 38-year-old Staatsburg matron burned to death in a fire at her home on the night of Oct. 28. Van Steenberg is accused of igniting her clothes when she surprised him as he robbed the residence.

Tuesday Is Primary Day Democrats Are Pushing Harriman Candidacy

Scattered area Democratic leadership fights and state administration efforts to nail down full support for Gov. Harriman's presidential hopes at the Democratic national convention will high-light tomorrow's primary in New York state, according to the Associated Press.

Polls in Kingston and Ulster county election districts will be open Tuesday from

Eisenhower Lock Is Dedicated on Seaway Sunday

Massena, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—The Dwight D. Eisenhower Lock of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been dedicated with tributes to the waterway's role in peace and war.

A brief ceremony was held yesterday at the lock site where contractors last week started pouring concrete for the 22-million-dollar project.

George H. Roderick, assistant secretary of the army, said the seaway would provide a commercial artery which could not be cut by submarine attack.

"From the military standpoint," he said, "this will be a blessing which alone would justify the whole enterprise."

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) expressed the hope that the dedication would remind Russian leaders that President Eisenhower and the American people seek to devote increasing energy "to the building of other great works of peace."

Wiley said that the recent resignation of V. M. Molotov as Russia's foreign minister, might mean "just a bit more" easing of East-West tension.

Rep. George A. Dondero (R-Mich.) said the finished seaway would be "the greatest inland waterway in the world." He and Wiley were co-authors of the seaway bill passed by Congress in 1954.

The Eisenhower Lock is now a massive excavation. When completed, it will be 80 feet wide, 768 feet long and will have a maximum lift of 49 feet. It is part of a 10-mile seaway section that will detour vessels around the International Rapids, about a mile eastward on the St. Lawrence river.

About 500 persons attended the dedication ceremony, held in warm humid temperatures and under heavy clouds. A heavy rain started two minutes after the dedication ceremony ended.

Laundry, Cleaning Wages Are Scheduled for Review

New York, June 4 (AP)—Appointment of boards to review minimum wage standards for more than 67,000 workers in the laundry and the cleaning and dyeing industries throughout New York state was announced today.

State Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin appointed the nine-member panels to study wage levels in the two industries for 12 noon to 9 p. m. during which time enrolled voters of the Republican, Democratic and Liberal parties may cast their primary ballot for selection of candidates. Locally candidates to fill the office of congress, state senator, member of assembly, surrogate, sheriff and coroner will be selected. Delegates and alternates to the Third Judicial District convention and the national convention will be selected and members of the state committee will also be named.

Democratic leaders predict united support for the Harriman candidacy at the Chicago convention. A few delegates might slip through their fingers but there is good reason to believe almost all the state's 96 votes will be delivered to the governor. But sixteen of the 86 administration-endorsed candidates for convention delegates have opposition.

A SLATE of 86 convention delegates approved by the Republican state committee, and prepared to support renomination of President Eisenhower, has no opposition.

New York delegates to both conventions are unpledged—there is no absolute certainty who all individual delegates might support for president. Six of the candidates for Democratic delegates are believed favorable to Adlai Stevenson; two more apparently lean toward Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Tomorrow's balloting also will settle a series of contests for nomination for 14 Congressional, 12 State Senate and 40 Assembly seats.

THE UNUSUALLY early primary has appeared to decrease interest in the balloting. A light state-wide vote is indicated. In New York city registration totals only 1,619,000.

Update, observers believe most of the incumbents in both the House of Representatives and the State Legislature will be renominated. Normally, there are few primary upsets in this traditionally Republican territory.

Special attention will be focussed on attempts to deny renomination to two Congressional GOP veterans, John Taber of Auburn and W. Sterling Cole of Bath.

Bernard Donoghue, a 46-year-old Auburn attorney, has made a spirited campaign against Taber, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, who represents the 36th district.

Cole seemingly faces lighter opposition in the 37th district from former Rep. Edwin A. Hall and Floyd Evenden, both of Binghamton. Hall has not conducted an active campaign.

Accidents Kill One, Hurt Eight Four Vehicular Mishaps Reported

One person was killed and eight injured in four vehicular accidents in Ulster county during the weekend.

Jack Farrell, 23, of Phoenicia, died Sunday afternoon of injuries suffered about 12 hours earlier when a 1956 convertible in which he was a passenger failed to negotiate a curve on the Phoenicia-Mt. Pleasant road a mile east of Phoenicia.

TROOPER Joseph Ellsworth of the Phoenicia Station reported that the convertible, operated by Bardett W. Booth, 23, also of Phoenicia, was traveling west about 35 MPH when it failed to negotiate a left turn, ran off the right bank and struck a tree with the right side, then rolled 45 feet down an embankment.

Mr. Farrell was taken to Kingston Hospital where he died at 2 p. m. Sunday.

CORONER Michael Galletta listed cause of death as a fractured skull, subdural hemorrhage and contusion of the brain. The accident is reportedly still under investigation.

Mr. Booth was only slightly injured, it was reported.

INJURED in other accidents were:

Edward Carson, 25, of New York city, lacerations of the scalp and possible fracture of the skull.

Robin Carson, Jr., 27, New York city, compound fracture of the left leg and abrasions.

Angus Patton, 33, Saugerties, chest, shoulder and possible back injuries.

Mary Patton, 22, Saugerties, injuries to back and right knee.

Molly Moore, 73, Poughkeepsie, sprain and possible fracture of the right wrist.

Arthur Schoonmaker, 36, Poughkeepsie, possible back injury.

THE CARSONS, injured in an accident involving their motor scooter and a 1951 sedan, were both reported in good condition at Kingston Hospital today. They expected to be released during the day.

Mrs. Patton was reported in good condition at Kingston Hospital. Mr. Patton was treated at the hospital but not admitted.

Troopers Joseph Ellsworth and H. S. "Dusty" Rhodes, who investigated the accident involving the Carsons, reported that a car operated by John Radcliffe, 33, of Highland, was proceeding west on Route 28 about a mile east of Mt. Tremper at 1 p. m. Sunday when he saw a motor scooter skidding toward him around a curve.

ACCORDING to troopers, Mr. Radcliffe stopped his car but the undercarriage of the scooter struck the left front fender. Edward Carson was operating the scooter, with Robin as a passenger, it was reported.

Negro Vote May Shift From 1952 Democrats Seen Losing Support

By The Associated Press

A prediction that fewer Negroes will vote Democratic this election year than in 1952 and a brief racial clash spawned from a baseball game highlighted major weekend segregation developments in the troubled south.

Roy Wilkins of New York, executive secretary of the national assn. for the advancement of colored people, told a news conference at Jackson, Miss., Sunday that he believed "there will be smaller percentages of Negroes voting for the Democrats than last time."

I WON'T SAY the Negro will come away in droves but instead of voting 70 to 80 per cent Democratic it will slice off this year," he said.

"Of course, the big city machines won't lose the Negro vote where they have had gains afforded them," he continued. "The Negroes in Michigan, for example, are not going to kick Gov. Mennen Williams in the teeth or in New York where Sen. Herbert Lehman (D-NY) has done so much for them."

WILKINS said that Negroes are still "hoping that the Democrats will put through some of their campaign promises of 1952 during this session of Congress. It is their last chance to deliver."

The NAACP executive secretary held the press conference after addressing a meeting of Mississippi branches of the organization attended by an estimated 2,500 persons.

HE SAID desegregation "has been successful wherever it has been tried" and "is going forward" despite such stumbling blocks as reported economic reprisals in Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

Wilkins said NAACP attorneys planned to meet in New York to begin preparations for answering the Alabama injunction granted Friday against the organization doing business in that state.

5th Ward Dedicates Memorial Freedom Preservation Stressed at Ceremony

Preservation of America's freedoms and material support in the fight against Communism were urged by former Mayor Eugene B. Carey at the dedication of the Fifth Ward Memorial Monument held Sunday afternoon at Lindsley and Delaware avenues.

The memorial was dedicated to 223 residents of the ward from the Ponckhockie section who served in World War 2, including seven men who made the supreme sacrifice—James J. Albany, William D. Kane, Samuel Lockett, Vincent J. Netherwood, Louis A. Perry, Frank Turek and Joseph Beirach.

A BATTLE for liberty prevails despite the end of World War 2 and the Korean conflict, Mr. Carey told approximately 1,000 friends and relatives of the veterans whose names are emblazoned on the monument.

Mr. Carey, who was born in Ponckhockie and graduated from School 4, said he was pleased that "you still count me one of you." He said the dedication of the memorial was a day "of re-dedication whereby you act to show the youth of Ponckhockie that their services in the armed forces of their country was honorable, not forgotten, and that only through it can we possibly hope to achieve the beneficent ends for which society is established and for which government is founded."

He said we must lend material support to "most countries" of the world to stave off Communism, "to bolster their economy, to keep peace and liberty in the world."

THE SUPREME sacrifice

made by the six young men of the ward, Mr. Carey said, "will not be in vain, as we are trying to build a better world, secure against mass madness, wholesale murder, man-made conflagrations, atomic and hydrogen bombs."

He called for a re-dedication, inspired by the memorial, "to the dead and living to save for ourselves and our children, three great principles, three great freedoms, that stand as a tripod supporting the structure of our Americanism."

Mayor Frederick H. Stang, who extended the greeting of welcome to the assemblage, lauded the Fifth Ward citizens for their tribute to those who (Continued on Page 16, Col. 2)

No Injuries Reported From Oklahoma Twister

Mustang, Okla., June 4 (AP)—Residents of this central Oklahoma farm community waded through a shambles of tornado wreckage today, marveling at the miracle that had spared the town's 210 citizens.

Weather observers said that if the twin funnels that swirled over at tree-top level early yesterday had moved a few feet nearer the ground, untold damage and loss of life would have resulted.

Although property damage was estimated at $200,000 and nearly all the residents were caught

Is Accused Of Murder And Purges Full 25,000-Word Version Released

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev in the speech which set off the Soviet downgrade-Stalin campaign accused the late Russian premier of "intolerance, brutality and abuse of power."

Khrushchev, the Communist Party boss and strong man of the collective leadership which took over in the Kremlin behind Stalin, made the speech Feb. 25 at the 20th Communist Party Congress in Moscow.

PORTIONS of it had come to light before but a full 25,000-word version, released here today by the State Department, went beyond the language previously attributed to Khrushchev.

The department said the document "is understood to have been prepared for the guidance of the party leadership of a party 'outside' of the Soviet Union."

The New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune had reported in today's editions that the paper was in the hands of the western allies.

THE TRANSLATION shows that in addition to general accusations, Khrushchev specifically accused Stalin in the murder and torture of old Red comrades.

The old Soviet leader, Khrushchev charged, "used extreme methods and mass repressions at a time when the revolution was already victorious."

"Stalin was a very distrustful man, sickly suspicious," said Khrushchev who had worked for him and with him for many years.

"We knew this from our work with him."

"He could look at a man and say: 'Why are your eyes so shifty today?' or 'Why are you turning so much today and avoiding to look me directly in the eyes?'"

"THE SICKLY suspicion created in him a general distrust even toward eminent party workers whom he had known for years. Everywhere and in everything he saw 'enemies,' 'two facers' and 'spies.'"

"Possessing unlimited power, he indulged in great willfulness and choked a person morally and physically. A situation was created where one could not express his own will."

Khrushchev specifically put full blame on Stalin for the great and bloody purges carried out in Russia in the mid-1930s.

"IT IS CLEAR that these matters were decided by Stalin," Khrushchev declared, "and that without his orders and his sanction Yezhov (a secret police chief and one of the purge directors) could not have done this."

Stalin, Khrushchev said, designated individuals as "enemies of the people" and the secret police headed by Lavrenti Beria—who was purged by the present regime two years ago—"outdid itself in proving the guilt of the arrested and the truth of materials which it falsified."

"AND HOW is it possible," Khrushchev asked his party audience, "that a person confesses to crimes which he has not committed? Only in one way—because of application of physical methods of pressuring him, tortures, bringing him to a state of unconsciousness, deprivation of his judgment, taking away of (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

In his greeting, Eisenhower said he was certain that the speech Wednesday by Harold E. Stassen, special assistant to the president, would be of "particular interest" to the delegates.

Mar. Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, and Frank P. Will, Philadelphia Rotary president, welcomed visiting delegates at this morning's session.

The welcoming addresses were acknowledged by Ernesto Imbasahy de Melo of Niteroi, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, second vice president of Rotary International.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 4 (AP)—Only slight progress was made today in the stock market.

Prices in the early afternoon moved between 1 and 2 points in either direction, but small fractional changes were by far the most numerous.

Trading was around the slowest pace of the year. Friday's total was 1,440,000, the second lowest of 1956, and the rate today was in that neighborhood.

Not a single major group exhibited exclusive tendencies, although the aircrafts showed unchanged to higher inclinations.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $178.80. The better showing of the average was due entirely to strength of individual issues.

Prices were mixed on light volume on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregular. And U. S. Governments were lower.

Glens Falls, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—

A determined dachshund, accidentally locked inside a grocery store here, a shattering experience to win his freedom.

He jumped through a four-foot square pane of double duty glass at the front of the store.

Police said the dog followed a child into the store and was apparently locked inside when the grocery closed. The luckless wanderer suffered cuts on the mouth.

Oswego, N. Y., (AP)—The Army plans to fire new weapons on its Lake Ontario range this summer.

It issued a warning Saturday to boat operators. The Army did not specify the types of weapons to be used other than to say they were "large" and "new."

About 30 anti-aircraft units, mostly National Guard, are scheduled to use the range during the summer.

Albany, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—The Boss family and Dudley Observatory will end an 80-year partnership on July 1.

Prof. Benjamin Boss will retire that day after 44 years as director of the observatory, a unit of Union University of Schenectady. He succeeded his father, Lewis Boss, who had been appointed in 1876.

The elder Boss started, and his son carried on, the cataloging of the position and motion of stars. In 1937, Benjamin published a five-volume work with data on 33,342 stars.

Albany, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Where do you stick the safe-driving stickers so they won't interfere with safe driving?

The New York Thruway Authority has ready for distribution automobile-window stickers urging safe driving on the super-highway.

A note on the stickers reminds motorists it's against the law to put them on front or rear windows. It adds that they shouldn't be placed anywhere else that would interfere with the driver's view of traffic.

The answer as recommended by a thruway authority spokesman: Paste the stickers on side windows, above or below eye level.

Charged With Murder In Shooting of Doctor

Nassau, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—

Daniel Slivko, 36, has been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of a doctor who was summoned to his farm.

Dr. Boris Klasons, 43, was killed Saturday with a single bullet as he was about to leave the property on Slivko's orders, police said.

Slivko waived examination yesterday before peace justice Carol Harrington in the town of Brunswick. He was ordered held in Rensselaer county jail to await grand jury action.

State police said that Klasons, a Latvian refugee, had been called to the farm by Slivko's sister. She said her brother had been in a state of nervous tension and had said: "I am going to shoot all the Russians."

When Klasons arrived, Slivko ordered the doctor off his farm "before I shoot all the Russians," state police said. The doctor was hit in the chin by an eight-millimeter bullet from a German rifle, authorities reported.

The victim's wife, Velta, also is a physician. A teen-age daughter and a son, 2½, also survive. The Klasons came to this country about five years ago.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 4, 1956

FLORIDA STEPPING-STONE

What Adlai Stevenson did in Florida was not impressive, but it was a victory.

Another stride forward—in California—and he will be in a position of strength which other contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination may find it hard to chip away.

From the outset of this campaign Stevenson has commanded a great deal of latent strength around the country. The only question has been whether he would suffer a series of primary defeats which would cause this delegate strength to take flight.

The fact is that since his surprise licking by Senator Kefauver in Minnesota, the former Illinois governor has not sustained such a defeat.

To be sure, with the exception of his write-in triumph in Oregon, he has accomplished nothing startling at the polls. But he has avoided being hurt in a way which would cause his following among top party men to conclude that he doesn't have it in 1956.

Florida's primary fell into that general pattern. It was a narrow win over Kefauver—a mere 12,000 votes. But only candidates like Gov. Averell Harriman of New York would find much comfort in this modest showing. The latter is in position where he must seize every slight encouragement.

If, however, Stevenson follows with a triumph in California, the latent power he has in many key delegations will most likely begin to shift toward him. A quick rundown of potential votes in these groups indicates they could bring Stevenson within hailing distance of the nomination.

Then only a determined coalition of his adversaries and the various "favorite son" candidates could conceivably block him.

He would have only the last mile to go, and they might keep him from traveling it. All signs so far suggest, though, that such a combination is not now in the making.

As for Kefauver, the Florida loss may be said to eliminate him in the technical sense. In the practical sense, most observers believe he has never had a serious prospect of gaining the nomination.

With his Florida showing put on top of loss to Gov. Robert Meyner's slate in New Jersey, Kefauver could hardly bring off a coup now even if he won a smashing victory in California.

The decisive stage is at hand for the Democrats, and Stevenson seems in the best place to gain from the events that still lie ahead.

THE STEEL NEGOTIATIONS

For the sake of steelworkers themselves and all other Americans, we must hope that steel wage negotiations now in progress will produce a speedy and amicable settlement.

The steel industry, unlike the jittery automobile business, is in tiptop shape. Production is at high level, capacity is at record heights, working conditions are basically good.

Both management and labor accept these points. But they still have their differences.

Management wants to pour millions more into further expansion of the industry, making more jobs and more steel for the country's economy. This money can come only partly from investors. Some must come from company earnings.

The fact that earnings are healthy enough to permit such expansion seems to union chiefs proof of their own arguments—that the industry can support substantial wage increases and other additional benefits.

As always, compromise of these viewpoints will be necessary. It could be long in coming. The most cheerful aspect of the situation is that neither side wants a strike. It would be a great misfortune both for the country and the steelworkers were that to occur in a year when economic forces are so delicately balanced between forward progress and backward moves.

There will be other vice presidents, but chances are there'll never be another Veep.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE REFUGEES

The Immigration Service has been tough on refugees and if they blame the State Department for laying down the law, who in that sprawling, incoherent department is responsible?

After all, there has been no misunderstanding as to how the refugees from the Iron Curtain countries came to be in the United States. They were especially admitted as defectors from Marxism. They were often helped to escape and to reach this country by American governmental agencies. They have been screened and examined. Some of them have been of some particular service to the United States. Nevertheless, Soviet Russia, Red Rumania, Red Poland, Red Hungary, are conducting campaigns for repatriation by blackmail and coercion and even what amounts to kidnapping and in the case of the kidnapped Russian seamen, the Immigration authorities at Idlewild assisted the kidnapers. General Alexander Barmin, formerly of the Red Army, himself a refugee in this country whose services to the United States should not be underestimated, told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee:

"I personally came in contact with many cases identical to the cases you are going to hear of the people living under false papers and identities, living in fear and terror of being denounced and executed."

Have we a right to send men to their deaths after they were granted sanctuary? Naturally, they had to adopt false names to escape. Many of these men had been prisoners of war in Germany. Out of about 4,500,000, according to Barmin, about 3,000,000 were allowed to die from starvation and disease. Others were forcibly made slave laborers, Barmin said.

"They were warned, too, sometimes by the Soviet repatriation officers, if they go back they don't expect to join their families, and also they would be sent to far parts of Russia for forced labor."

Those who managed to find sanctuary in the United States often changed their names in the hope that the Russians would not be able to get at them. Many of these men are married and are the parents of native American children. Barmin said:

"I met hundreds of them who are living in fear and agony, who are afraid of loss of citizenship, who are afraid to use their ability and knowledge and their talent and what they know, because they think they will be deported and executed."

The Immigration officials have a law to guide them which is very hard on those who enter this country under false names or who provide our government with other false information. Realistically, these people must use false names in self-defense. They know how Walter Krivitsky was murdered in Washington; they have seen Russians kidnapped right here in this country; they know that Juliet Poyntz, an American Communist, was kidnapped on 57th Street in New York, right in the heart of the city, was put on a Russian ship and was never heard from again. They know how Leon Trotzky was murdered in Mexico. So they do not put neon signs announcing their presence.

Sergei Szeiko came into this country assisted by American military friends in Germany, who, he says, helped him to prepare his papers which declare that he was born in Poland when actually he was born in Russia. When his wife applied for American citizenship, the Immigration authorities went after Szeiko, told him that they had known all about his incorrect papers and demanded a $2,500 bond which was raised by a man and a woman officer who knew him. Szeiko swore that he earns $70 a week. He has to pay lawyers $1,500 in this case. He borrowed the money from three banks which he has to repay. The family of his wife is helping him, and that is saving him from complete disaster."

There are many hardship cases of this kind—cases involving refugees who were given sanctuary here, who changed their names and other identifying data on advice, and who now find themselves in conflict with our Immigration authorities. To deport these people to Russia would be to send them either to slave labor camps or to death. There ought to be a policy and a procedure if we are not to have a world-wide reputation that when we afford a man or a family a sanctuary, it is violated by some department of the government. Surely, such a humane matter ought not to be left to routine officials of the Immigration Service.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
THE GROWING PAINS OF MATURITY

In her remarkable book, "Gift from the Sea," Anne Morrow Lindbergh argues strongly that, for persons in the 40's and 50's, midlife presents an opportunity for taking stock; of looking where one is going; of wondering why one is going there, and of learning if something might be done to make life more purposeful, more soul satisfying, and more worth living.

Dr. Walter Alvarez, in an editorial in the magazine Geriatrics, devoted to diseases and processes of aging, quotes her as saying, "The primitive physical functional pattern of the morning of life is outlived. But there is still the morning opening up, not in the feverish pace of the morning but in having time at last for those intellectual, cultural and spiritual activities that were pushed aside in the heat of the race." She wonders if the second part of life might not be a new adolescence. Again there can be "discontent, restlessness, doubt, despair and longing." She compares these discomforts to the growing pains of childhood, which are accepted as a necessary part of growing up.

Unfortunately, as Mrs. Lindbergh says, most middle-aged persons distrust such feelings; they fear them and tend to flee from them. They tend to take refuge in frantic and largely fruitless overwork. Many persons dodge these invitations to mental growth "as if they were devils, when really they are angels."

Many a restless man of 40 or 50 would do well to read and reread Philip Barry's play, "Holiday," in which the hero, after making his pile, wants to take off a year—a sort of holiday during which time he will try to decide what use he will make of the rest of his life.

The books of James Branch Cabell, written in magical English, are full of this same idea—disatisfaction with "success," middle-aged disillusionment with life, and the realization that much in life is sham and the doing of that which is expected of one. Cabell also felt that middle age may be a period of new growth.

Unfortunately, when the opportunity to change comes, the mentally dissatisfied and restless person often lacks the perceptiveness to see it and the courage to take it. He does not dare go out into the world to find new interests. He may not have the courage to cut free from the old office, the old job, the old ways of life, and perhaps the old comfortable income.

However, this is the time to ask himself or herself if they are going to be satisfied to carry on as they have been for the rest of their life. Perhaps new interests or hobbies may be found without cutting completely away from their present mode of living. Now that the attention of so many authorities is turned to the problems of old age, many new channels of interest are being opened up for the middle-aged person as a preparation for the years after they have retired.

"Hope We're Not Looking Into the Future"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Republican strategists have the Democrats over a barrel on the subject of labor legislation.

This is not to say that union political leaders are in the GOP corner. Far from it. But the situation is a reversal of the past because it's the Democratic party that's supposed to be organized labor's best friend and greatest hope.

Consider the Democratic dilemma. The party is nearly broke. It has few fat-cat contributors on call for the financial support that usually flows to a party in power.

The only sources of millions available to the Democrats are the treasuries of the labor unions and their political education committees.

If they wanted to, the unions could raise campaign chests almost matching the Republicans'. There is no apparent inclination on the part of the union bosses to do any such thing. The reason is fairly obvious. The Democrats haven't done anything for labor, lately.

WALTER REUTHER spelled it out to the United Auto Workers. He declared his belief that most Democratic leaders support the principles of liberalism which the unions advocate. But he warned that if the Democratic party compromised on those principles, it would not have union support, it would not deserve to win and it would not win.

David Dubinsky took the same line before his International Ladies Garment Workers convention. He implied that if Democratic leaders followed repressive tactics this year, the union should sit out the presidential race and concentrate on congressional contests.

Both of these statements hit directly at the do-little record of the Democratic majorities in Congress on labor legislation this year and last.

The result is that Republican Secretary of Labor James Mitchell—who has only a comparative mild Eisenhower labor reform program to support—can blast at the Democratic leadership in Congress for having done nothing about even that.

MITCHELL CENTERS his criticism on House Labor Committee Chairman Graham Barden (D-N. C.) for sitting on labor bills. But it applies right across the congressional board.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) chairman of a labor bills subcommittee, has tried valiantly but vainly to get administration leaders to agree on a program.

Douglas has tried to push his own bills for union welfare fund regulation and aid to distressed areas. But now even he appears to be giving up. He is moving from Labor to Finance Committee. Whoever succeeds him will have to start all over again. The prospect is that nothing will be done.

All this explains why Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.)—a former GOP National Committee chairman—was able to go before the House and needle the Democrats for their failure to act on 10 major labor bills now gathering dust in Congress.

EVEN THE MOST conservative Republican congressman can get considerable glee out of this situation. They may not want to see any of this legislation passed themselves. But it is great political fun to be able to accuse Democrats of having done nothing about it.

This provides a complete reversal of the picture of a few months ago. When Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) chairman of the GOP Senate Campaign Committee, launched a bitter attack on the labor unions for their political activity, more liberal Republicans had a sinking spell. They thought the party could not afford to alienate labor union voters this openly.

The way things are developing now, this may not make much difference in the 1956 presidential race.

Congressional contests might be something else again. It is hard to conceive that labor union voters will cast their ballots for conservative Republicans. But the Democrats now don't have this vote in their pockets, either.

Washington, June 4—The British foreign office belatedly reveals that in June, 1939, a young German aristocrat named Adam Von Trotz Zu Salz notified Adolf Hitler that Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden would be unable to rally Great Britain against Neville Chamberlain's policy of "appeasement." The war began about three months later.

Von Trotz was a cousin of William Jay Schieffelin, of New York, the oldest male in the line of a house which takes a pompous view of its heredity and civic virtue. The incumbent chief, his son, believes Alger Hiss's only crime was to tell lies under oath regardless of the implications of those lies. He withholds condemnation in the case of Prof. J. Robert Oppenheimer. Their business, Schieffelin and Co., imports liquor and deals in drugs.

Von Trotz came here after his visit to Cliveden and called on old man Schieffelin and Mrs. Schieffelin. He was in New York about two weeks. This was before Pearl Harbor. Von Trotz returned to Germany by way of the Orient and Russia.

Hitler had him killed for participating in the attempt to kill him by a bomb explosion on July 20, 1944. Von Trotz made a secret visit to Madam Alexandra Kollontay, the Russian ambassador in Stockholm. 'Resignation' of Molotov Called Move to Dupe West

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 4 — How easy it is to fool the American people with those censored dispatches from Moscow telling about the "resignation" of Molotov! At least so reason the strategists in the Kremlin in their campaign to make the world believe the leopard is changing its spots. But it takes a Russian to debunk a Russian move. Here is what one of the best informed and keenest of the Russians in Washington told this correspondent over the weekend:

"Molotov wasn't dismissed and he wasn't necessarily downgraded. He is still one of the eleven members of the Presidium—the ruling clique of the Soviet Union today. He is a part of the so-called 'collective leadership.'"

"WHILE MOLTOV publicly asked to be relieved of the foreign ministry, it must be noted that for more than a year Khrushchev and Bulganin have been directing foreign policy. When Molotov gives up the post of foreign minister, it is as if the prime minister of a Western country who has taken on an extra cabinet post relinquishes it to attend to other duties.

"On the surface it would appear that Molotov gave up the post of foreign minister to produce a certain effect on Tito and the outside world and also internally to give the impression that a Stalinite was being removed. But Molotov is still a member of the Presidium and also is First Deputy Premier. The fight for power inside the Kremlin still goes on. Remember that Malenkov stepped down from the Premiership but remains as a member of the Presidium and went to England recently on a formal visit. It is not clear yet what the balance of forces is or is going to be inside the Presidium."

"What is the meaning of the changes just announced concerning the system of justice?" I asked.

"IT DOESN'T mean very much—the top officials are still in control. Only the other day we read of the execution of Ba-juriov who at the nineteenth Party Congress had been elected an alternate member of the Presidium. Three of his associates also were executed. He was known as 'a little Stalin' and was, indeed, the ruler of one of the so-called republics—Azerbaijan. News of the execution was printed in the newspapers of the capital—Baku—but not in the Moscow newspapers. Nor was any report of the trial or details given."

"Do you think the so-called 'decentralization' moves are important?" was my next question.

"They are not very significant," he replied, "though they might mean that the present government feels more certain of itself and more inclined to take chances in making concessions to the people."

"ARE WE in any way helping to build up the prestige of the present government in Moscow?"

"Yes. The Soviet government wants to give the impression to the people of Soviet Russia that it is favorably looked upon by the other governments of the world and that its foreign policies are a success. So every time the United States plays up to the men in the Kremlin to the detriment of important missions or by fraternizing with them, the Soviet rulers gain a big advantage inside Russia."

It seems to be generally agreed now by Russian experts here that although the "Cult of Stalin" is being denounced by the Soviet propaganda machine, the "Cult of Lenin" is being built up. The Lenin doctrines, of course, are just as machinelike as those of Stalin.

"AN EXAMPLE of the opportunism of the Kremlin is to be noted from a re-reading of Stalin's speech of March 10, 1939, to the eighteenth Congress of the Communist Party. It is interesting to compare Stalin's arguments against 'neutralism' with what today are called the policies of the 'uncommitted' countries. With a substitution of 'Soviet Russia and Red China' in the mind of the reader for 'Germany and her allies,' the speech is a realistic demonstration of the opportunistic behavior of the Soviet strategists. Stalin was describing the 'cold war' prior to September, 1939. He said:

"A new imperialist war is (March 10, 1939) already in its second year, a war waged over a huge territory stretching from Shanghai to Gibraltar and involving over five hundred million people. The map of Europe, Africa and Asia is being forcibly redrawn. The entire post-war system, the so-called regime of peace, has been shaken to its foundations. . . .

"HOW IS IT that the non-aggressive countries, which possess such vast opportunities, have so easily, and without any resistance, abandoned their positions and their obligations to please the aggressors?"

"Is it to be attributed to the weakness of the non-aggressive states? Of course not. Combined, the non-aggressive, Democratic states are unquestionably stronger than the Fascist states, both economically and militarily. . . .

"The chief reason is that the majority of the non-aggressive countries, particularly England and France, have rejected the policy of collective security, the policy of collective resistance to the aggressors, and have taken up a position of non-intervention, a position of 'neutrality.'"

"THE POLICY of non-intervention means conniving at aggression, giving free rein to war, and, consequently, transforming the war into a world war. The policy of non-intervention reveals a desire not to hinder the aggressors in their nefarious work . . . to allow all the belligerents to sink deeply into the mire of war . . . and then when they have become weak enough, to appear on the scene with fresh strength, to appear, of course, 'in the interests of peace' and to dictate conditions to the enfeebled belligerents. Cheap and easy!"

Yet just a few months later, in the same year, Stalin, discouraged by the appeasement policies of the Western Democracies, removed Litvinov as Foreign Minister, put in Molotov and then joined Hitler and invaded Finland only to find himself in June, 1941, attacked by the Nazi military machine itself.

"THE WORLD, therefore, has to accustom itself to the fact that moves reported nowadays in the censored news dispatches which come out of Moscow do not mean what they say on their face. They are merely instruments of the strategy followed by Lenin from the very beginning—a strategy which considers that lying and distortion are not 'immoral' but simply a means to justify the end sought. whose daughter married William Lloyd Garrison. William Jay Schieffelin says that would be Mrs. Pierre Jay. The daughter's name is Ellen and Garrison is a grandson of the right-wing Yankee war-monger of a century ago who beat the drums for the massacres of the Civil War but found personal preoccupation safe at home.

Lloyd Garrison is a member of the New York law firm which has included Randolph Paul; Louis Weiss; Telford Taylor and Simon Rifkind.

Paul got into the Treasury as chief counsel under Morgenthau and was there throughout the treacherous regime of Harry Dexter White.

Weiss was Marshall Field's fix during his hitch as publisher of a blackguard paper of pro-Communist slant called P.M. There is a bundle of stuff on Field's tax deals in the Morgenthau diaries. Taylor was a courtroom avenger against the Nazis at Nuremberg and lectured against Joe McCarthy at West Point. He is a brief-case brigadier. Weiss horned into the first Alger Hiss trial without a client and was all over the place like an escaped ape with no interference from Judge Sam Kaufman. Throughout the trial Dr. Carl Berger, a so-called psychiatrist, sat within the rail "observing" Whitaker Chambers. There was an insinuation that Chambers was crazy. Schieffelin recalled that Garrison's sister, Clarinda, married Binger.

Garrison was nominated for a high job in the Treasury under Morgenthau, but he had said the alliance between Hitler and Stalin was not necessarily evil of itself and that cheered him. Schieffelin says Garrison is a charming chap and a fine American. Kinfolks, he rather likes Hiss, too, you will remember.

All this is leading up to items from Morgenthau's diaries concerning these same characters and some others.

Graduates Told Spending Is Only Peace Means

Syracuse, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—The minority leader of the House of Representatives told Syracuse University graduates today "in my opinion the United States will not soon be plunged in a war which you must fight."

Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) made the statement in a prepared commencement address for 1,662 graduates. House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Texas) was to share the platform with Martin.

Both were awarded honorary doctor of law degrees.

Martin outlined the nation's latest moves for defense against "the Soviet menace" and said: "Because of the seriousness of this threat, we must expend over 35 billion dollars for the maintenance of our armed forces. We recognize only in this way can precious freedom be maintained. It is the one sure way of peace.

Martin continued "it's bright picture ahead. The nation's business community is prospering and is still expanding." He said "new ideas, a better and more useful product and moderate prices—these are the basis of the great prosperity."

Martin added: "We need your vision, your courage, your inherent sense of moral decency. And I am proud to be able to tell you that this administration is awake to that need."

Syracuse presented other honorary doctoral degrees to:

Dr. T. V. Smith, retiring professor of citizenship and philosophy at Syracuse; F. Gordon Smith, retiring vice president and executive secretary of the university; the Rt. Rev. Hamilton Kellogg, Episcopal Bishop Coadjutor for Minnesota and Carl L. Bausch, senior vice president of Bausch and Lomb Optical Co. of Rochester.

District Attorneys Plan To Inform Public

Schroon Lake, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—New York State District Attorneys Assn. plans to tell the public more about its members.

Edward S. Silver, Kings county district attorney, told the 17th annual summer conference of the association here Saturday that "the television and pocketbook versions" of a district attorney give the impression of "a monstrosity, an ogre out only to get convictions."

And television, another complained, makes the district attorney's job seem easy. "It just takes a half-hour to solve an intricate problem," said Frank Hogan, New York city district attorney, of his television counterparts.

The association planned a series of meetings to keep the public informed of the members' official activities and to review common problems.

Discuss Paper Mill

Columbia, S. C., June 4 (AP)—The South Carolina General Assembly convenes in special session today to consider a bill intended to guarantee the state a 100 million dollar new industry, a paper mill of the Eowaters chain. Details of the bill were kept secret by Gov. Timmerman and others after he called the session a week ago to amend an 1896 law limiting land ownership by out of state corporations to 500 acres.

Riesel Charges Congress 'Ducks' Rackets Probe

New York, June 4 (AP)—Labor columnist Victor Riesel said yesterday that Congress for years has "ducked" an investigation of racketeer and communist influences in labor ranks.

Riesel, who lost his eyesight as a result of an acid attack by an unidentified assailant two months ago, added:

"In a situation of rising crime in labor, Congress has stopped dead in its tracks. There has been no real investigation."

Riesel made the statements in an interview on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press."

He said the investigation he proposed should include the attack on him.

HE SAID HE is convinced that his syndicated newspaper columns assailing racketeer and communist elements in labor led to the attack in which sulphuric acid was thrown in his face in the dark early in the morning of April 5 on a mid-Manhattan street.

Answering a question as to why he charged Congress "ducked" an investigation of the labor situation, Riesel said politicians have been afraid of "alienating labor by probing that sleazy segment of it which is crooked."

He said labor leaders have been remiss in not pressing for a Congressional investigation of criminal and communist elements, and added:

"THERE is the AFL-CIO executive council under the honest leadership of George Meany. And sitting at his right is Walter Reuther, who still travels with a bodyguard. Why shouldn't they ask for an investigation? I believe the highest leaders in the AFL-CIO would go along with an investigation by men like Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), whom they know as a friend."

Riesel said that in addition to a Congressional investigation there "should be a watchdog committee to keep an eye on this underworld second government."

"If this could happen to me, does any one think it could not happen to some one else?" he asked.

RIESEL SAID he is convinced the attack on him was the "work of a well organized combine, skillfully planned." He added that "it may take months, if not years, to catch the thug, but I am confident they will."

Riesel promised "protection and anonymity" to his attacker if he would come forward and identify those who, according to the columnist, hired him.

Rewards for information leading to capture of his assailant now total more than $46,000.

The police, Riesel said, are "always willing to make a bargain with the attacker if he pointed the finger at the man who hired him."

Riesel said there is a "great possibility" that the attack was communist-inspired because of his columns charging that "on the New York waterfront communist agents have worked and are working with some elements of the mobsters."

Reverse Action

Oklahoma City (AP)—Mead Miller, senior Oklahoma county excise board member, has been receiving complaints from a friend for weeks that his taxes were too high. Finally, Miller sent out appraisers to check the friend's property. He reported back to the friend: "You're paying less than the regular valuation. We'll have to raise your taxes."

Champion Spellers Split $64,000 Prize

New York, June 4 (AP)—Two 12-year-old spelling champions are each $32,000 richer today after battling to a draw in a television quiz show.

The contest between Gloria Lockerman of Baltimore, Md., and Andy Douglas of Greenwich, Conn., was declared a draw last night on CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Challenge."

The two youngsters split the $64,000 top prize. Their winnings, after taxes on which there was no immediate estimate, will go into trust funds.

The boy and girl both correctly answered the $64,000 spelling question on the show a week ago Sunday. They were to have had a spelling off last night.

But master of ceremonies Sonny Fox announced that the producers of the program had ruled the contest a draw.

Meanwhile Jockey Bill Pearson of Pasadena, Calif., and Hollywood actor Vincent Price both in the "Great Art and Artists" category last night. They try for the $64,000 question next Sunday.

They were shown reproductions of five great paintings in each of which an object had been concealed. They were asked to name the painters and the hidden objects.

The artists (and concealed objects):

Filipino Lippi, a little dog; Murrell, a fatted calf; Rembrandt, an ostrich feather; David, a cup of hemlock; Vermeer, a pitcher and bowl.

Design developed by Univ. of Ill. Small Homes Council as part of a research project sponsored by the Lumber Dealers Research Council. WP6-3

Until recently, the buyer of a new home had but two choices—he could buy a home of set design and set size at mass-production prices, or he could have one built piece-by-piece to suit his needs at much greater cost. And if his buying power was restricted, the first choice was his only choice.

Now you have a third choice—one that incorporates the best features of the other two. With Lu-Re-Co pre-assembled Wall Panels and Roof Trusses, you can have your home built to suit your needs and still have the advantage of mass production savings.

First, Lu-Re-Co units are flexible—they can be interchanged to fit into any plan. Second, they are pre-assembled—built to 4x8 foot unit sizes that give you the savings of building with parts instead of pieces. You have complete freedom in choosing your exterior, interior (dry wall, plaster or paneling), flooring, and even the style of windows you will have.

We pre-assemble the Lu-Re-Co panels and trusses in our own yards to meet our local building codes. Full-sized materials are assembled by local labor and delivered direct to your building site. There are no long distance shipping costs; no expensive cutting waste; no time-consuming measuring, sawing and fitting on the job. Everything fits together perfectly—ready to erect in the shortest possible time.

Your attractive Lu-Re-Co home—like the one above—can be financed under new FHA terms with up to 30 years to pay. If you own your own lot, its value is usually sufficient to cover the down payment.

We are licensed by the Lumber Dealers Research Council to produce these economical, long-lasting Lu-Re-Co panels and roof trusses. See us today to see how easily you can own your own beautiful, individually styled Lu-Re-Co home.

The Webelos award was made to Robert Ploss by Mr. Dousharm. John Clark of Troop 8, First Presbyterian Church, assisted by Ed Grandberg conducted a tenderfoot ceremony at which Robert Ploss was presented his tenderfoot award.

In line with the theme of the month Den 1 Mrs. William Palen, den mother, presented a skit, "Where Friends Meet." Bobby Adams' solo was accompanied by Robert Raskoskie, Peter Clausi, Robert Finch, Buddy Joy, Robert Shaffner and John Smith.

Donald Beesmer of Den 2 won the top spinning contest. Dens 4 and 5 presented a display of projects and handicraft. Mrs. James Sisco and Mrs. Francis Short are den mothers. The display included bird houses, jewelry boxes and tin can "hobo" stoves.

Chairman William Palen conducted a parents' meeting at which Ed Safford, district commissioner, discussed the June theme, "Rodeo."

Old-Fashioned Thrift

By FRANK TRIPP

Thrift once was a virtue that built personal security. Usually it was born of necessity, but it extended into the lives of men who came to such affluence that extravagance would not have harmed them at all.

Once nearly everybody had a single Sunday suit, or one Sunday dress. It was worn only on top occasions.

It hung a long time in a closet, until a new Sunday outfit replaced it. Then it moved to the "week day" peg, and the Sunday suit of two years before became the "dirty work" garb. This was routine in average homes of 50 years ago.

The same process prevailed for all possessions and equipment. The objective was to get every last stitch of service and wear out of every article purchased; to waste nothing, to wear it out.

IT WAS basic training in the youth of men who later became wealthy, but never deserted the principle that extravagance and waste were sinful.

Failure to follow that precept, those days, made "paupers" of wastrels who today would become unashamed government dependents. Thrift and pride were boon companions.

How poorly all of this fits the current economy. Instead of old-fashioned thrift, the generation is surrounded on all sides by the urge and temptation to discard the old—even before it is paid for.

To buy the new with borrowed money or by projecting payments long into the future; into old age, sometimes into the lives of our children.

Thrift has taken on a new meaning. One that has well nigh put it beyond the reach of many who would like to practice it.

TODAY THRIFT speaks in terms of hundreds. Once it spoke in pennies. Saving now begins where extravagance leaves off, almost entirely referring to what is left after luxury indulgence.

True, this has created a lush new economy; brought about many "Sunday" outfits for the humbled worker, a garage behind every house, an antenna on every roof, the Miami, the Hollywoods, the 3 a. m. supper. Luxury has become commonplace.

Extravagance no longer seems sinful. It is a necessary element of the new order of things. Without it factories would close, the economy topple, public security funds vanish.

IT IS WORKING swell at the moment. In high gear it always will. Still, looking on in skeptic wonder, are left a few who had a single Sunday suit, maybe a

So They Say..

It (peaceful coexistence with Communist nations) is national suicide for the United States on the installment plan.

—Louis F. Budenz, former managing editor Communist Daily Worker.

Let's see who sticks his head up next. I think it might be a little dangerous.

—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, on Armed Forces assault.

Any public official who is confronted with a bad traffic accident problem and refuses to do anything about it is guilty of criminal negligence. Citizens who allow officials to get away with such indifference are accessories after the fact.

—City Manager William Gill Jr., of Oklahoma City.

bicycle, one-week unpaid vacations, a tenth the money—but ten times the self reliance; and just as much fun.

Thrift has ceased to be either government or personal responsibility, and that which was called waste has become necessary to our way of living. The old idea of getting the utmost use out of our possessions would destroy the market for the services and products of millions of people. Extravagance is our biggest industry.

Yet there remains a remnant of old-fashioned thrift. In the people's saving accounts, life insurance and government bonds. Everybody is not depending upon Uncle Sam to see them to the grave, much as the vote-wearers scheme to promise it.

A GOODLY PORTION of our current spendings would have been wanton waste to our fathers. Mine taught me, for instance, that every unnecessary mile that my bicycle ran would be a mile that it would not run at the end of its career, when I would need it.

Apply that to a dollar spent unnecessarily and one has, in a nutshell, the stern thrift philosophy of the 19th Century, and well into the 20th.

It was dollars thus guarded that founded America. And in a showdown it will have to be something like that that rescues us from this spendthrift era, should it ever crumble.

The question is, by then could we take it?

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—A policeman complained that Alfred Dandridge's dog tried to bite him when he went to investigate a card game at Dandridge's house. "That dog was sitting on the front porch like a lookout," the officer testified. "I think he's got him trained."

"No, sir, your honor," Dandridge protested. "He just don't like to see policemen around the house. The way it is, judge, he's been picked up by the dog catcher so many times that the sight of a policeman's badge drives him crazy." City Judge Beverly Boushe dismissed gaming charges against Dandridge.

STOCKS UNDER CLOUDS

Some successful speculators frequently buy common stocks when they are under an economic cloud. And there are several groups in this category just now. Three of them are the equities of the automobile, auto accessory and agricultural equipment industries.

Thousands of farmers are having a rough time. Since 1947, farm income has declined steadily. However, despite this, farm equipment sales have been well maintained. Power machinery featuring important labor-saving devices has been an economic blessing to many farmers faced with the necessity of reducing costs. And liberal credit terms have made equipment purchases possible.

Nevertheless, the plight of farmers has been reflected in the prices of the common stocks of the corporations farmers patronize. Investors able to bear normal risks and who are more interested in capital appreciation than in current income might well look earnestly at this group of stocks.

CONGRESSIONAL committees understand the hardships of America's farmers and before long favorable action will be coming out of Washington which should restore the buying power of thousands of marginal agriculturists. Between now and the November elections it is doubtful if any matter will receive more political attention than this.

The total book value of 100 shares each of five speculative farm equipment stocks—Case, Deere, International Harvester, Minneapolis-Moline and Oliver—is more than $20,000. Yet today they can be bought for half that amount. All carry risk of varying degrees and only those interested in speculating for capital gains should buy most of them.

Likewise the automobile equities are under a cloud. In fact, the same economic influences that are holding back the farm equipment stocks are handicapping the motor industry and the accessory companies.

In America, a basic industry always comes back. That simple truth is something millions of investors should incorporate in their personalities. When this is done, there is always a rainbow in a stormy sky. Far too many investors in America buy stocks when the economic skies are cloudless and sell when rain is falling.

Most of the automobiles sold in the United States are made by three enterprises. Nineteen fifty-six promises to be the third best year in the history of this industry. And because of this, prospective purchasers of these shares are delaying such investment. Furthermore, because of the pessimism underlying the industry, steady selling of these shares is taking place.

Will economic America produce and sell more automobiles in a single year by 1965 than she ever has? Yes. Now, this looks like the third best year. Consequently, investors in auto shares who like to buy risk equities while they are under clouds might employ some funds there.

And several of the leading accessory firm stocks today are sound speculative purchases. It is a good time for investors to visit brokerage offices where balance sheets of automobile accessory corporation statements can be examined and analyzed.

If some of the leading enterprises in this industry were to liquidate their capital assets, stockholders would get far more a share than the price quoted by the New York Stock Exchange.

I have spoken of these three industries in particular because their economic welfare is so closely associated with farm prices. And anybody can see that soon Congress will do something to lift the farmers' buying power.

THE FORUM—(Q) "Most of my wealth is in hard-to-market real estate. Should I sell some of it now that I have a buyer? What should I do with the money?"

F R (A) Yes. If you can afford the kind of risks mentioned here, buy some of those that are paying regular dividends. Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Aggressive bidding paid handsomely when today's hand was played at New York's famous Regency Club. Walter Malowan, who held the rather meager South cards, managed to steal the hand even though East could have made four spades with an overtrick.

North showed great restraint in passing four clubs. He had begun to suspect that the opponents could make four spades, and he correctly decided that they were unlikely to disturb a mere part-score contract in clubs. Had North bid four hearts, however, either East or West would have gone on to four spades, and then the fat would have been in the fire.

West opened the ace of spades, and Malowan ruffed. He led a heart to the king, ruffed another spade, and led a second heart towards dummy.

West made the mistake of ruffing the second heart, for which it's hard to blame him. West then had to lead another spade, since a shift to diamonds or clubs would have cost a trick. Declarer ruffed for the third time and led his last trump, the king. West had to win with the ace of clubs and returned a fourth spade for lack of anything better. Dummy ruffed and led another trump, dropping the queen and jack together. It was now too late for a shift to diamonds, since Malowan could discard dummy's losing diamond on his own fifth heart.

West should have discarded instead of ruffing the second round of hearts. South would ruff a third spade and lead the king of trumps. East would be able to lead diamonds in time to set up a trick in that suit, and West would have a trump to ruff a heart and cash his king of diamonds.

Will Allow Export

Singapore, June 4 (AP)—The Singapore and Malayan governments announced today they will allow export of "reasonable" quantities of rubber to Red China, despite the UN ban on strategic shipments to Peiping. Informal sources said this British colony and the neighboring federation of British protectorates would approve the sales under the "exceptions" clause of the embargo agreement. Britain recently informed Washington that in certain cases she would invoke this clause, which authorizes member states to use their discretion in special instances.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Speaking about old newspapers I remember when Charles O'Connor brought me an old Kingston paper, which was published in the Farm Building on the corner of St. James and Wall street. The publishers were Mr. Copp and the famous Samuel Freer. Mr. O'Connor's copy was dated Friday, May 1, 1795 and called "The Rising Sun." According to the "History of Ulster" by Sylvester, The Rising Sun was known as the Farmer's Register in 1792 and published by Nicholas Power and William Copp. So it seems, at no time was Kingston without newspapers from the 1700's. They were filled with advertisements, local and foreign and national news, so at all times the local citizen was well informed of the goings on. Through the ages one phrase has always attracted attention from everyone, it is "Did you hear what happened?" That is what makes newspapers so interesting, everyday we want to know what happened and the newspapers give it to us in detailed facts. We appreciate newspapers most when there is a holiday weekend or for some other reason the paper does not come out or if it is late. We just feel lost! How many times, do you find old newspapers used for some purpose or other to line a chest of drawers or shelf and you sit down and read everything in it, and your memory suddenly goes back with the age of the newspaper. In spite of radio and TV, newspapers are still the most important means of bringing the detailed news of the local and world news to our homes.

It is said one of the first local papers was the New York Journal and Advertiser published by John Holt. It was removed from New York to Poughkeepsie in 1776, in consequence of the occupation of that city by the British. It was published at Kingston from July to October 1777. No doubt that would be an interesting paper to see. Although we do not make much fuss over the famous "Ulster County Gazette" of Saturday, January 4, 1800 published by Samuel Freer and Son, still way out in Azusa, Calif., the Canyon City News, reprinted it in full on Oct. 26, 1950 with the old type print on old looking paper or which I have a copy.

Do you think they did not have their jewelry in 1800 in Kingston, there is an advertisement stating that a watch was lost and that a suitable reward will be given if brought back.

Those were the days of apprenticeship, an apprentice to the clothier's business was wanted by William Peters at Marlborough. He had to be an active, diligent boy from 14 to 18 years of age. There is an advertisement from Kline Esopus, which I take it to be Port Ewen as we know it today. It seems a gun was stolen from the store of Abraham I. Hasbrouck, marked S. B. and a $2 reward was offered by John West. There were a great many sheriff sales, and Peter Ten Broeck was the sheriff at the time. They do not give details as to what the items are nor why the sale, but it seems once a person could not pay he just could not get money from anywhere. I do not see any advertisements of banks. Credit system and loans as we have it today would have helped the colonists no end in those days.

They had a barter system which they used when they had something worthwhile to offer, but no doubt it had to be earned by their two hands from their land and animals.

Dairy Clergyman Is 'Elated' Over Move

Newton, N. J., June 4 (AP)—The Rev. John W. Dorney has termed himself "elated" and "surprised" at the formation of a committee whose co-chairman called the clergyman "an outsider" in the movement to raise dairymen's income.

The Rev. Mr. Dorney is executive secretary of the recently organized Tri-State Master Dairy Farmers Guild.

The new committee, formed Friday in Ithaca, represents major farm groups in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The clergyman said that he was elated because the established leaders had "finally recognized that the most important man in the business is the dairy farmer."

He said he was surprised they had taken action "since they have maintained they represented the farmers' interests for years but have little but titles to show for it."

How tests were made: Identical new cars competed in full-throttle acceleration trials. Cars had been driven about 3000 miles prior to testing. In typical test (above) one car had used only Shell Premium with TCP—the other a competitor's premium gasoline. The radar check proved that Shell out-accelerated the competition. Most cars got 6 to 18% better pick-up using Shell Premium.

Radar proves you can get up to 18% faster "pick-up" with Shell Premium with TCP

TCP releases power locked in by engine deposits... stops pre-firing and spark plug "miss"

Today's high-powered cars are famous for their instant passing—for their ability to deliver acceleration at those moments when even the most careful driver needs it for safety.

But they can lose much of their flashing pick-up in less than 3000 miles of driving. Harmful deposits are to blame.

Instead of your engine delivering full power during acceleration, it lags because deposits are short-circuiting the spark plugs—causing them to "miss."

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP* lets you regain this lost performance.

TCP additive neutralizes harmful deposits, stops spark plug short-circuiting—tunes your engine while you drive.

TCP's effectiveness was proved in radar-observed tests, where most cars using Shell Premium Gasoline got 6 to 18% better pick-up.

Switch to Shell and you'll agree—TCP is the greatest gasoline development in 31 years.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HOLD LUNCHEON—The annual spring luncheon of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club was held Saturday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Donald Allen, state committeewoman for Ulster county was the guest

Women in Politics Is Discussed At Spring Luncheon

Mrs. Donald S. Allen of New Paltz, newly elected State Committeewoman of Ulster county, called attention to the importance of women in politics and cautioned against over-confidence in the coming elections in and address Saturday at the annual spring luncheon of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Allen said many feel that President Eisenhower "will win anyway," regardless of hard campaigning by the Republican party. This may be so, she said, cautioning, however, that the party could not risk complacency.

"We need independent votes and some Democratic votes to carry the election," she told more than 100 women attending the meeting.

She urged Ulster county Republican women to vote in the coming election and to see that all their friends go to the polls.

One of the saddest comments after the last gubernatorial election was that "we could have won if we realized how close the vote was," she pointed out.

Mrs. Allen said the 19th amendment conferring suffrage on women brought with it responsibilities and privileges. She pointed out that women of this country were privileged, a fact brought sharply into focus by traveling abroad.

Mrs. Allen was introduced by Mrs. Frederick H. Stang, wife of the mayor of Kingston.

Negro Vote

Sgt. Emory Jackson said whites and negroes were playing baseball on adjoining diamonds at a nominally white playground and "appeared to be getting along fine" until two negro boys scooped up a stray ball from the white game and ran to their home two blocks away.

SEVERAL MINUTES later, a shotgun blast was fired from a moving car into the home of Earline Hill, where the two boys lived, Jackson said. Crowds of whites and negroes formed quickly in the neighborhood, armed with clubs, rocks and sticks, he said, and estimated the number involved at 2,000.

All available police were rushed to the area and the Rev. Dewey Jackson, a former police chaplain, pleaded with the demonstrators to disperse. Three white men were jailed without charge and a negro woman was treated for minor injuries after being struck by a baseball bat.

Two good rules for keeping out of trouble are "wrong no man" and "write no woman."

When the proud father called up the printer to order cards announcing the birth of twins, the girl at the order desk didn't quite catch the message over the phone.

Girl—Will you repeat that?

Man—Not if I can help it.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By HERSCHBERGER

The jests of long ago? Night and day they show up on TV and radio!

—V. D. Palat.

Bridget was fond of waiting at the door of the church and of complimenting the priest on his sermon. One day the priest remarked after an unusually strong "bit o' blarney."

Priest—Now, Bridgett, you know that your compliments fall off me like water off a duck's back.

Nothing abashed, Bridgett replied:

Bridgett—Yes, Father, but—the ducks like it.

Who was born on a mountain top in Tennessee?... If you can't answer that one tell us where you spend your spare time. We'd like to join you.

Wife (waking up)—John, I'm sure I heard a mouse squeaking somewhere.

Husband (drowsily)—Well, what do you want me to do—get up and oil it?

CAA said it has assigned its agricultural aviation specialist, Gale Hanson, to work with the Agriculture Department on the project during the next two months.

Aircraft will spray more than a million acres in New York, Massachusetts, lower Vermont and New Hampshire in an effort to halt the spreading gypsy moth.

The CAA said the air assault in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain area will be aimed at crocheting Mormon crockets and grasshoppers. It said about 1,600,000 acres will be sprayed in Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

More than 20,000 tons of the newest insecticides will be spread over the 2,600,000 acres in the two areas. Hanson and CAA safety agents in the area will assist in maintaining the approximately 75 airplanes which will take part in the Agriculture Department's biggest aerial insect attack.

New Child Mental Health Group Set To Organize Unit

Joseph T. Weingold, New York city attorney and executive director of the State Association for the Help of Retarded Children, will address a joint meeting of the steering committee and parents and friends of mentally handicapped children at the organizational meeting to be held in the audiovisual room of George Washington School Wednesday at 8 p. m.

The steering committee appointed to work on the organization of a county chapter, is comprised of over 60 members from various sections of the county representing the ministry, law, education, medicine, psychiatry, public and school health, social welfare, civic organizations, social agencies, and the laymen. Parents, foster-parents and friends of approximately 225 mentally handicapped children have been invited to this meeting. The public is also cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Weingold attended the initial meeting of the steering committee held in Kingston May 9 at which time he briefed the members on the purposes of the association and the benefits to be derived by having a county chapter. Since the founding of the State Association in 1950, Mr. Weingold has received many personal letters indicating a very definite need for help in dealing with their problems constructively.

Mr. Weingold feels that mental retardation is a problem in mental health and thereby, responsibility for such a problem must be assumed by the citizens of the community. The growth and development of the state organization from one chapter in 1950 to 24 today clearly points out that people are not only aware of this humanitarian responsibility but are mobilizing for the betterment of the welfare of mentally handicapped children, he said.

Having presented the scope of the problem of mental retardation within Ulster county and the county's responsibility to the steering group at the initial meeting, Mr. Weingold will outline the organizational structure of an AHRC chapter and the chapter's place in the over-all state set-up at Wednesday's meeting.

His talk will be informative to all attending and especially enlightening and encouraging to parents of mentally handicapped children. Following his address, he will assist the members of the Planning Committee with actual chapter organization and election of officers.

Women and Girls Swimming Classes Slated at YMCA

The YMCA will start the 1956 women's swimming instruction classes Wednesday with two classes beginning at 7:15 and 8:15 p. m. according to Louis H. Shafer, general secretary.

There were over 50 registered in the classes of 1955 and 27 learned to swim the length of the pool or more. Those making the distance were the ones that attended classes regularly, he said.

Mr. Shafer said "The first 50 women, 18 years of age and over that register will be accepted." It is considered just about impossible to handle more than that number, he said. It is anticipated that approximately 20 will be present each evening in each class with two adult instructors.

Assisting Mr. Shafer in the instructions will be William Ireland, physical director. Both men are qualified, expert swimming instructors with instructors' certificates from the American Red Cross Life Saving Service and from the National YMCA Aquatic Service.

The girls' swimming classes will have their first session Friday starting at 3:30. There will be two swim periods with the second class at 4:20. The Friday afternoon classes will continue through June when the special summer program will be scheduled. Wednesday and Friday mornings, starting June 27 all girls that are 8 years of age and over can register for swimming.

Larry Petersen Leads Landgraf Bowling Classic With 890

Local Kegler's Score in Line For $1200 Prize

Larry Petersen Jr. of Kingston leads the fourteenth annual $1200 Landgraf Bowling Classic in New York with a score high enough to have won several of the past tournaments.

Petersen soared to a brilliant 890 Sunday at the Bowlor Recreation on games of 275, 216, 202 and 197.

Several classics in the past have been won with scores of less than 900 for four games.

THE LANKY curve ball specialist launched his bid for fame and glory with six straight strikes in the first game.

His series was marred by only three open frames—all splits—two of them in the fourth game.

Petersen's 890 earned him a $200 prize on the spot.

George Robinson made a fine comeback after a 152 opener to fire games of 225, 223 and 200 for 800 which is expected to finish in the prize money.

ROBINSON had four misses and a split in the four games.

Other Kingston totals were Jerry Oster 784, Charlie Manfro 751, Mitzie Arlensky 726, John Bailey 700, Ken Williams 680, Jim Amendola 656, Frank Leskie 598.

The summaries:

Petersen .275 216 202 197 890
Robinson .152 225 223 200 800
Oster .195 214 204 171 784
Manfro .197 194 177 183 751
Arlensky .193 162 173 198 726
Bailey .159 182 184 185 700
Williams .171 184 150 175 680
Amendola .154 182 138 182 656
Leskie .137 147 151 143 598

Redbird Skein Halted at Ten In Eastern

(By The Associated Press)

The Allentown Redbirds' Eastern League winning streak has ended at 10 games and the end was not a glorious one.

Dick Ricketts, former Duquesne basketball All-America seven-hitter the host Binghamton Triplets for a 3-2 victory in the opener of a doubleheader yesterday.

But the sad downfall came in the second game as the Triplets pounded three Bird pitchers for 12 runs in the first three innings, and went onto thump them 12-5.

Meanwhile, the host Albany Senators were knocked out of the league lead as the last-place Johnstown Johnnies cut them down twice 2-1 and 4-1. The Schenectady Blue Jays, who split a pair of 2-1 decisions with the Williamsport Grays at Schenectady, took over sole possession of the lead. At Syracuse, the Reading Indians scalped the Chiefs twice 8-2 and 5-0.

THE JOHNNIES took advantage of two Albany errors to walk off with the first victory, and won the nightcap behind the four-hit pitching of left-hander Jim Singleton.

Harry Durkin's triple in the seventh, ruined a budding no-hitter for Reading hurler Vic Lapiner in the first game.

Inclement weather forced the postponement of all league games.

Mrs. Hagge Wins In Golf With 293

Pittsburgh, June 3.—Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge of Sarasota, Fla., fired a one-under-men's par 33 on the final nine holes today to capture top prize in the women's invitation golf tournament.

Mrs. Hagge, one of the famed golfing sisters formerly playing out of Texas, was trailing the United States women's open champion, Fay Crocker by one stroke going into the final round at the Churchill Valley Country Club.

Despite cold and damp weather, she toured the front nine in 38 today and then turned in the sub-par card on the final nine to finish with a one-over-par 71 round and a 293 total.

In the first three rounds, she carded 73, 74 and 75.

For her second five strokes back were Mrs. Hagge's sister Alice Bauer of Asheville, N. C. and Miss Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay with 298's.

A tie also developed for fourth place between Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., and Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., who posted 299's.

Pirates Slash Braves' Margin To Only Six Percentage Points

BY JACK HAND

(The Associated Press)

For 145 golden minutes, the giddy Pittsburgh Pirates led the National League Sunday afternoon before losing the second half of a doubleheader. Although Bobby Bragan's upstarts finished the day six percentage points behind Milwaukee, it would take a brave man to predict they won't hit the top again.

The fired-up Pirates, whose startling rise from the depths of the cellar has excited the nation, actually lead Milwaukee by a half game in the won-and-lost figures. Due to a difference in total games played during this rainy spring (40 by Pittsburgh, 33 by Milwaukee), the Braves hold the edge in percentages.

UNTIL PITTSBURGH came to town Friday, Milwaukee's muscular home run hitters were tying records in every game. They had smashed 14 in their last three games and 16 in their last four, but Pirate pitching clipped their wings. With Bob Friend, Red Munger, Ronnie Kline, Roy Face, Nelson King, Vern Law and Jack McMahon doing the tricks, not a single Milwaukee homer was hit in the four-game series.

When Pittsburgh edged Milwaukee in yesterday's first game 3-1, it marked the first time they had been in first place since June 16, 1948 when they shared the lead with the then Boston Braves.

A two-run uprising in the sixth broke up a tight battle between Face, getting his first start after 15 games in the bullpen, and Milwaukee's Ray Crone. King finally came in to stop the Braves in the ninth with men on second and third and only one out.

Pittsburgh almost pulled out the second game against Bob Buhl but finally bowed 4-3. The Pirates closed the gap to one run in the seventh and had men on in the ninth with two out when Gene Freese grounded out. The defeat was charged to Law, who gave up all Milwaukee's runs.

ELSEWHERE in the National, Cincinnati remained in third place by splitting two with the New York Giants. A pair of two-run homers by Frank Robinson and Ray Jablonski set up the Reds' opening victory 7-3, but the Giants fought off a late spurt to save the second 4-3, despite two homers by Gus Bell, who has hit 11 this season.

Old teammates took turns working out on their former buddies at St. Louis. After Murry Dickson, an ex-Phil, pitched the Cardinals to a 2-1 edge over the Phils' Robin Roberts, the Phils came back for an even break 9-3 behind Harvey Haddix, an ex-Cardinal. Richie Ashburn had five hits in the second game and Stan Lopata homered in each contest. Lindy McDaniel, the Cards' bonus baby, was the second game loser.

Brooklyn awoke from its Chicago slumber after losing three straight to the cellar team and knocked off the Cubs 4-3. Clem Labine had to bail out bonus pitcher Sandy Koufax in the ninth. Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges of the Brooks and Gene Baker of the Cubs hit homers.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE "runaway" became more of a pennant race when Detroit dumped the leading New York Yankees twice, 6-3 and 7-4 in 10 innings.

The results cut the Yanks' lead to 4 1/2 games over Chicago, which took over second by thumping Baltimore 12-0 and 9-2. Cleveland dropped to third in a split at Washington. The Tribe took the first 12 innings 8-4 with the help of Vic Wertz' three-run homer, but Washington won the second 7-1 behind Hal Griggs. Kansas City eked out a 7-6 edge over Boston in 10 innings on Tim Thompson's winning single. Rain washed out a scheduled second game.

Saratoga Raceway Launches Spring Season on Thursday

for the driving championship of the Saratoga Raceway summer meet opening Thursday night may be a good one, as it was last year.

Among those slated to drive at the 69-night session are Aubrey Rodney, winner of eight summer championships here in the last ten years; Clarence Franklin, last year's seasonal champion, summer and fall meets combined; Howard Parker, 1955 Spa fall meet winner; and Angus Allen and Eddie Demo, last year's leading race-winners here.

Only Sachar Werner and Pete Russo will be missing from among the first ten high-average drivers of last summer. Werner, who won the summer crown with a Universal Driver Rating System average of .327, is racing at Roosevelt Raceway and Russo has been advised to refrain from driving for a year due to an illness.

RODNEY, who suffered a broken collarbone late in the summer meet last year, could be the one to beat as he has the largest stable here, some 30 horses, and some stock that promises to do well.

Allen, busiest driver here last year, was the leading race-winner of the season with 46 victories trips while Demo was second with 40.

Could be, of course, that some other contender will carry off top honors as the roster of drivers slated to compete at the meet also includes Dick Nesbitt, Gerald Roeder, Benny Michael, Henry Kyer, Clarence Masten, Tony Ambo, Don Bromley, Val Staker, Roland Beaulieu, Donnie Miller, Al Retzlaff, George Chretien, Cliff Umstead and a number of others.

Detroit ran its winning streak to six games and eight of the last nine to earn a fourth-place tie with Boston, only 6 1/2 games off the pace. The Tigers knocked out Whitey Ford in the opener, the first time he failed to go the route in nine starts this season. Billy Hoelt exercised his usual charm over the Bombers, scattering nine hits.

BILL TUTTLE knocked in the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning of the second game, but the Tigers added two more as 40,911 saw the Yanks lose their first home doubleheader since last July 4. Harvey Kuenn of Detroit had five hits in the doubleheader.

Dick Donovan of the White Sox shut out the Orioles with seven hits in the first game at Baltimore and Jim Wilson, an ex-Oriole, held them to four hits for the sweep.

St. Peter's Beats Rosendale, 27-3

Connecting for 25 hits, St. Peter's of Kingston, swamped St. Peter's of Rosendale (B), 27-3, Saturday in the CYO Boys' Midget Baseball League game which was called after five innings because of rain.

John Reinhardt paced the barrage with five hits in six trips. Bill Huber and Walt Harden rapped four safe blows each and Bob Steltz three.

The winners tallied five times in the first two innings, nine in the third and four each in the final frames.

Huber coasted to an easy win behind the savage attack, holding the Rosendale club to three hits. O'Sullivan was the starter and loser and was relieved by McCabe.

Little's 197 Leads Field in Texas Golf Open

Dallas, Texas, June 3.—Imper-turable Gene Littler the noted front runner from California moved into the undisputed lead in the $70,000 Texas International Golf Open today with a three-under-par 67 that gave him 197 for 54 holes.

He shot a 34, 33 over a Preston Hollow Country Club course that dried out considerably by his late afternoon round after an early morning downpour. The score lifted Littler from a first-place tie he held with Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City after 36 holes.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Dallas was Littler's closest challenger, 2 strokes back, with 18 holes to go tomorrow. Middlecoff made a remarkable recovery from a 3 over par 7 on the second hole that would have wrecked the day for most tension-wracked stars. Middlecoff finished with a 35, 33-68 for 199.

De Vicenzo, too, staged a magnificent comeback, to baffle the final four holes to birdie the poor round. He finished with a 38, 32-70 for 200, two strokes ahead of Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Tommy Bolt of Houston and Ernie Vossler of Ft. Worth. Snead had a 35, 33-68, Bolt a 36, 31-67 and Vossler a 34, 32-64.

Bob Toski of Holyoke, Mass., posted a 34, 31-65 to wind up at 203. The British open champion, Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., tied at 204. Thomson had a 35, 33-68 and Douglas 36, 32-68.

Onteora, Newburgh, Port Jervis Gain Section 9 Titles

Kingston Third in A; Indians Capture Four Firsts; Zwilling 2nd

Onteora Central school, Newburgh Free Academy and Port Jervis High proved to be the best mudders in the annual Section Nine track and field meet Saturday at Dietz Stadium as they captured team titles in their respective classes over a water-logged course.

Competing under the worst conditions imaginable, the Indians and Goldbacks won Class 'C' and 'A' crowns, respectively after hard fights while the Red Raiders rolled up 63 points in breezing to the 'B' championship.

Kingston High wound up a distance last to NFA and runner-up Middletown with 26 points compared to 59 for the Goldbacks and 55 for the Middies. Jack Hermance was the lone Maroon winner—taking the shot put event with a throw of 40 feet, 3 inches.

Irving Zwilling was the only KHS athlete to qualify for the Intersections Saturday at West Point. Zwilling finished second to Harley Katz of NFA in the hurdles, but posted a good enough time to earn a berth.

THE MEET was run in a constant downpour which prevented any records from being broken. The running track was completely underwater by the time the middle and long distance events were launched. It got so bad that the milers and relay teams were splashing through their events in a couple of inches of water. Vetrean observers agreed that conditions were the worst they could recall in the meet's history.

Onteora accomplished its win with a late victory in the relay and a fourth in the discus to nip Tappan Zee in a two-team battle, 35-34. Bernie Stahl's foursome of Ben Robinson, Bill Reynolds, Ted Jensen and Bob Shultis won in 1:45 and Craig Brenner made things sure by winning an important point in the last event on the program.

EACH TEAM took four firsts. John Frankle won the high jump, Bob Hall the 440 and Shultis the 220 for the Indians. The biggest win for the Flying Dutchmen came in the mile where Dennis Martin licked Marlboro's long distance ace Tom Schopinsky in the good time, under the conditions, of 4:51.7.

Newburgh needed eight first places, including the relay, to edge the stubborn Middies, who captured just three, and placed heavily. The Middies' Sherk, Griffith and Newburgh's Willie Griffin were double winners. Myers took his specialty, the javelin, and then won the 440. Griffin scored in the 100 and 220.

Port, which won the DUSO Meet for the first time in the school's history just last week, finished its season unbeaten by overpowering six rivals and outdistancing runner-up Liberty by 30 points. The Red Raiders copped seven events and had double winners in Jim Malzahn and Joe Regelski.

MALZAHN captured the hurdles and 100 and wound up second in the 220. Regelski scored in the 440 and high jump. Saugerties finished way down the ladder in 'B' scoring nine points. Speedy Bill Zeilman beat Malzahn in a mild upset for the Sawyers' lone first.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

Hot weather always brings on a rash of letters from mid-western fishermen concerning the little black "specks" found in the flesh of bass and sunfish.

These are of course, the eggs and larvae of certain parasites which infect warm water fishes. Actually, the fish is usually an intermediate host with the adult parasite being transported by aquatic birds such as the heron family.

But without reviewing the life cycle of a very complicated infection it's enough to know that thorough cooking will kill the bugs.

HOWEVER, I notice that a great many people are buying home smoke houses these days and there's the vagrant possibility that some amateur chef will only partially cure his fish.

With this in mind, I must also point out that one of these parasites, a tape-worm known as Diphylobothrium latum, commonly found throughout the United States, is no friendlier than a cobra in sufficient doses. If you insist on eating fish with spots under the skin, cook them to a crisp. Don't smoke them.

One of our favorite fishing spots in Alabama is the Coosa River, which originates in Georgia, in Floyd county, wanders westward to Gadsden, Alabama, and then turns south.

THERE are three notable reservoirs in the Coosa above Montgomery, a namely, Jordan Lake, Lake Mitchell, and Lay Lake. A suggested excellent trip is by boat through these three lakes, starting at Childersburg, on Highway No. 90 down to Jordan Dam on Road No. 11, above Wetumpka, on Road No. 14.

Especially good spring and fall fishing on these. Excellent largemouth bass, white bass, pickerel, crappie, and sunfish generally exists. Usually there is excellent fishing in the tailwaters below the dams.

When you're fishing from a drifting boat, on particularly windy days it is far better to drift stern to the wind than broadside to it. The broadside surface of a boat will catch far more wind and waves, and shove you along just that much faster. (Distributed by NEA Service)

Saxton, Welter Champ, Out in $1,000 Bail

New York, June 4 (AP)—World welterweight boxing champion Johnny Saxton and two waiters are free in $1,000 bail each today following a brief bout on a Queens street.

The case was continued in Queens Felony Court yesterday for a hearing June 12 on mutual assault charges.

Police said Saxton, 25, forsook boxing gloves in favor of a baseball bat when two waiters, Wade Nance, 29, and Samuel Wyatt, 34, allegedly blocked his car by double parking.

The waiters, police said, fought with a lug wrench. A round of horn blowing preceded the main event early Saturday.

The two waiters required medical attention for cuts and bruises. Saxton was uninjured. All three are Negroes.

Demonstration Held

New York, June 4 (AP)—Egging and shouts of "Viva Trujillo" greeted a group of Dominicans who yesterday picketed a meeting of their countrymen who are loyal to the strong man of the Dominican Republic.

The Loyalists met at Manhattan Center and drafted a cable to Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo protesting a "campaign of vilification" they said is being waged against him here. About 15 anti-Trujillo Dominicans threw up a picket line outside the center. They carried signs linking Trujillo to the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Jesus De Galindez.

Arrests Available

New York, June 4 (AP)—A young off-duty patrolman who was punched and kicked while breaking up a tavern brawl didn't have to look for his alleged assailants. They came to him. Patrolman John Sutherland, 22, was being patched up in the emergency ward of a Staten Island hospital Saturday night when three young men were brought in for treatment. Sutherland promptly arrested them as his alleged assailants. Police said the three crashed into an automobile shortly after they jumped in their car and fled from the scene of the tavern brawl.

served their country, especially "those who made the supreme sacrifice."

THE MAYOR expressed the fervent wish that America had seen the last of world conflict and that "the nations of the world will continue to live in peace."

Joseph L. Sullivan, city historian, also a former resident of the ward, traced the historical background of the Ponckhockie section and said, since the English troops landed in that area in 1777, the residents "of Ponckhockie have played a part in the winning and preservation of freedom. They have been soldiers of peace doing their part in building and maintaining good government."

The background of the monument, which replaces a temporary plaque dedicated on July 23, 1944, was outlined by Raymond H. Van Valkenburgh, principal of School 4, who said the present monument compares favorably "with those found anywhere."

HE ALSO praised Alderman Samuel Perry and Supervisor James Fiore of the Fifth Ward for their faithful work as co-chairmen of the monument committee.

The dedication ceremonies followed a parade through the downtown section, the line of march including officers and color guard, Santa Maria Benevolent Society, Gold Star Mothers, Mayor Stang, the guest speakers, Alderman Perry, Supervisor Fiore, Port Ewen Drum Corps, color guards of Joyce-Schrick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Kingston Post 150, American Legion, firing squad of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, Loyola Ignatius Post, Catholic War Veterans, and members of Cordts and Union Hose companies.

The national anthem was led by Marianne Purhans and Frank Farslow, students at School 4. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. James Dunnigan. The dedicatory prayer was offered by the Rev. Wardell Swett and Benediction was given by the Rev. Oscar Palmer. The committee included Rudolph Schoepf, Mrs. James Turk, Mrs. Florence Cordts, Miss Agatha FitzGerald, John Cordts, Mrs. Ira Bell, Edward Cunningham and Mr. Van Valkenburgh.

3 Kingston Men

Jack Ripa and Robert Flynn, who investigated, reported that the men admitted they took at least two other loads from the mountain top, access to which is by steep, almost impassable roads. They sell the scrap to junk dealers, troopers said.

They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Braendly of Woodstock and asked an adjournment to obtain counsel. The case was scheduled to be heard today before Judge Braendly at the Woodstock Town Hall.

The men were committed to the Ulster county jail in lieu of $5,000 bail each.

of the storm, which the highway patrol said covered an area about two miles square. The turbulence then appeared to move skyward and sailed harmlessly over Oklahoma City, 10 miles to the northeast.

John Hamilton, chief of the Oklahoma City Weather Bureau, said the freakish twisters were "very powerful for their size." "It looked like it was too cold for a tornado to come down to the ground it would have to have been a very powerful one to get down under those conditions," he said. If the storm had stayed on the ground much longer "it might have done tremendous damage," Hamilton added.

One of the few witnesses to the storm, E. G. Dalton, said he started watching about 3:30 a. m.

"I woke the family and hurried to the cellar. We no sooner got inside when we heard tin slamming against the house," Dalton said.

Dalton said a cloudburst accompanied the wind and hail.

"Water was five or six inches deep on flatland when we came out of the cellar. It looked like the ocean," he exclaimed.

Not a single home escaped entirely. On some only porches were ripped loose or window panes were shattered, but all had felt the storm's wrath.

The Charles Griggs family was trapped in a storm cellar by piled-up debris for an hour.

Griggs, 39, his wife, 34, and a son and daughter scrambled into their shelter about 20 minutes before the twin twister struck.

The 11-year-old boy managed to squeeze through a small opening by the cellar door and brought rescuers.

Late Bulletin

Ruling on Appeal

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Supreme Court decided 6-3 today the Taft-Hartley labor law does not prevent state labor boards from banning mass picketing, use of force and threats of violence by strikers.

The ruling was given on an appeal by the United Automobile Workers (7-2) from a decision by the Wisconsin Supreme Court. The state court upheld an injunction which restricted picketing and other union activities during an April, 1954 strike at the plant of the Kohler Co., in Kohler, Wis.

The majority opinion said "the dominant interest of the state in preventing violence and property damage cannot be questioned."

Two Due in Court

Rensselaer, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—A father and son were scheduled to appear in City Court tomorrow night for a hearing on charges they stole $2,000 worth of barbiturates from a plant where the father was in charge of production.

Judge Laverne G. Lewis ordered them held in Rensselaer county jail.

The pair is charged with first-degree grand larceny in connection with the theft of barbiturate capsules, known as "goof balls," from the Rand Pharmaceutical Co. The son formerly worked in the sales department.

Police at Massapequa Park, Nassau county, said they had found 100,000 capsules in the father's automobile when the Gonzales' were arrested at the son's home there Thursday night. The elder man is from Albany.
